As the auto industry blossomed in Detroit in the early 20th century, many of its top executives chose the Bloomfield area to call home.

We will take a look at 4 of these beautiful estates including information on the house, the property and the careers of the original owners. This fun and interesting presentation will focus on estates built between 1918 and 1930.

Our presenter will be local historian and long time Bloomfield Historical Society member John Marshall. John has done exhaustive research on many historic homes in the last 20 years. Click on the “History Next Door” link on our website homepage for dozens of other home histories.
